Chexar® and QFund® Announce Partnership to Streamline the Check Cashing Business in North America.

Saturday, February 28, 2009: Orlando, Florida - Chexar® and QFund® today announced a partnership between the two companies that is intended to seamlessly blend QFund's leading short term loan systems with Chexar's leading check cashing solution. The partnership includes the availability of a software integration between the two development environments and transaction processing systems. Some of the leading short term lenders in the nation are utilizing both QFund and Chexar and the partnership makes the operations more functional providing centralization and control over both product sets.

"The partnership is envisioned to bring in ease of business and process benefits for all customers of QFund who provide Check Cashing services. Using the centralized turnkey risk management system of Chexar will enable them to safely and profitably offer professional check cashing services at their retail locations," said Anil Pinapala, CEO of QFund. The partnership is poised to result in operational efficiencies and efficient risk management for the check cashing companies and provide the technological benefits with the synergy of two technology systems.

"There is no doubt that payday lenders across the nation are rapidly transforming their retail franchises into multi-line financial service centers. The combination of Qfund and Chexar make an unbeatable solution for these companies and we are already working together with several leading operators in the space." Drew W. Edwards, CEO of Chexar Networks, Inc., said. "The users can now manage their entire transactional data in a single system without any need for duplication," he added.
